

Foetus insurance

An unborn foal can be insured from 90 days after the last service date up to seven days after the birth. The insured value is established on the basis of the stud fee, which you can increase up to 2.5 times subject to a maximum of € 4,500. The premium is 9.5% of the insured value. In the event of damage, 100% is reimbursed.

The insurance is in conformity with the comprehensive cover

If the mare is carrying two foals, no compensation is paid if one of the two foals is born dead or is permanently disabled for a period of six days after the birth and/or ends up dying.

If, at the time the insurance takes effect, no recent statement has been issued by a veterinarian attesting to the mare being in foal, and based on a recent scan or recent tactile examination of the mare, Hippo Zorg will not make any compensation payment if the mare proves not to be carrying.

In foetus insurance taken out for older mares (aged 20 and over), death of the foetus other than due to the foal being dropped/lost is excluded from the cover.

From the 7th day after birth you can provide for the foal's continued insurance on the horse insurance.

Information on the possibilities of continued insurance can be obtained from one of our members of staff.
